TOWN FALLS SILENT TO REMEMBER THE FALLEN

SHOPPERS AND WORKERS PAY THEIR REMEMBRANCE DAY RESPECTS

More than 100 people gathered in Northampton town centre on at 11am on Tuesday for an Armistice Day service to remember those who have died defending Britain since the outbreak of the First World War.

Marking 100 years since the start of World War One, the short but poignant ceremony in the Garden of Remembrance, outside All Saints Church, included a poetry reading by pupils from Castle Academy.

Father David McConkey gave the service and led those gathered in prayers and two minutes of silence, following the playing of the Last Post.

Among the many people attending the ceremony were the Mayor of Northampton John Caswell, the Lord Lieutenant David Laing, councillors and members of the Armed Forces, as well as the Castle Academy pupils.

People across the town also joined the commemorations with many offices, schools and factories observing the two minutes' silence.

Thousands also took part in wreath-laying ceremonies and church services around Northamptonshire on Remembrance Sunday.

With it being the 100th anniversary of the outbreak of the First World War, it was a particularly poignant few days, mirrored in this year's annual poppy appeal.

Chairman of the Northampton branch of the Royal British Legion, Phil York, said: "The amount of notes people have been putting in our collection tins this year has been fantastic," he said. "I think with it being such a special year, it has really brought so many people out of the closet so to speak."

Armistice Day and Remembrance Day ceremonies and services took place in the county on Sunday and Tuesday

'I would like to thank those who stuck by me'

A student who was this week acquitted of murdering a fellow holidaymaker in Crete says there can be no winners from the 16-month jail 'hell' he has had to endure.

Myles Litchmore-Dunbar was arrested hours after a 30-man bar brawl took place outside a late-night club in Malia on July 23 last year.

The University of Northampton economics student was questioned and charged with the murder of East Londoner Tyrrell Matthews, who had been stabbed twice during a skirmish.

But despite little evidence linking him to the murder – except the testimony of a single witness – 20-year-old Myles was kept in jail in Athens for 16 months while he awaited trial.

Last Monday, however, his ordeal came to an end when a mixed jury court in Lassithi, Crete, found him not guilty of the crime.

Following his acquittal he released a statement, which read: "The past 16 months have been a horrific experience for me which will live with me for the rest of my life.

"Today there have been no winners, only confirmation that I was not involved in the death of Tyrrell, neither did I buy or possess a knife."

He added: "I would like to thank my family and friends for their continued support and belief in me."

Speaking to the Chronicle & Echo, his father, Chris Dunbar, said the family could now start to rebuild their lives: "There were many times when proved innocent University of Northampton student Myles Litchmore-Dunbar has been acquitted of the murder of Tyrrell Matthews-Burton.

I thought my son wasn't going to come home. I haven't slept for 16 months, I would wake up every night thinking about the case."

Mr Dunbar, aged 50, of Lewisham, London, petitioned the British Government to intervene in the case as the skirmish involved 19 British nationals. He also felt his son should have been tried in the UK, but both requests were never met.

Shortly before his son's trial began on October 17, Mr

Dunbar's frustration was further compounded when British police officers were flown over to Thailand to assist the investigation into the brutal murder of two young British tourists. Hannah Witheridge and David Miller.

"As soon as the incident in Thailand happened, [David] Cameron sent police there in a matter of days," he said. "But this involved 19 Brits and yet they did not intervene. The whole thing was demoralising."

'Principled Myles was no killer', says mum

THE mother of Myles Litchmore-Dunbar said she never doubted her son's innocence throughout the 16-month 'nightmare', which followed his arrest on July 24, 2013.

Carole Litchmore, aged 50, who moved to Greece so she could be nearer her incarcerated son, told ITV's Good Morning Britain that her Christian faith had helped her family through the darker times.

Speaking after the acquittal, she said: "We are so relieved.

"We had 16 months of the worst ordeal any family, bar death, could experience.

"It has been an absolute nightmare.

"Thanks be to God and everybody who helped us.

"I feel like someone who has just won a million pounds."

But Ms Litchmore said she never doubted her son's innocence.

"I worried for my Myles," she said.

"But I knew my son was innocent because that's how we brought him up. My son is principled.

"We needed to work and we needed to pray, but thank the Lord."

Ms Litchmore said her thoughts were also with the family of Tyrrell Matthews Burton, who were this week no closer to finding out who killed their 19-year-old son.

The teenager was with friends on his first holiday away from home when he was killed.

"I'm very concerned that they don't know," Ms Litchmore said.

"My son tried to stop that fight but he became the person charged with the murder.

"We wanted the British police to be involved in the investigation, but they didn't.

"That family now still doesn't know who has done it."

Panto star Joe will get festivities under way

The star of Royal & Derngate's pantomime, Joe Pasquale, will switch on the Christmas lights in Northampton town centre next week.

The annual switch-on will take place in the Market Square on Thursday, November 20.

Heart FM duo Stuart and Natalie will be hosting the big Christmas countdown with festive entertainment starting at 5.30pm. There will be bands playing, choirs singing Christmas carols, and plenty of colourful entertainment to add a touch of magical sparkle and festive cheer.

Lights will be switched on at 6pm by celebrity guest Joe Pasquale, who will play the swashbuckling Captain Smee in Royal & Derngate's Peter Pan panto.

Other panto stars will be making an appearance as will club mascots from the Cobblers, Saints and Steelbacks: Clarence, Bernie and Steeler.

A traditional German Market will open at 6pm in Abington Street selling traditional food, gifts and crafts. All 22 stalls will then open from 10am–9pm until December 21.

There will be free parking for the event in all Northampton Borough Council car parks from 3pm on the day of the switch-on ceremony.

The town will be decked with five Christmas trees and around 250 smaller trees will adorn shop fronts and businesses in the town centre, thanks to a partnership between the borough council and Northampton Town Centre BID.

● THE iconic Coca-Cola Christmas truck – made famous by the seasonal 'holidays are coming' advert – is set to make a stop in Northampton shortly before the big day.

The big red lorry, adorned with bright lights and a picture of a laughing Santa Claus drinking a bottle of the soft drink, will stop at St Giles Square in the town centre on Wednesday, December 17, between noon and 8pm.

Northampton people will be able to have a photo taken with the truck and Coca-Cola's 'Christmas helpers' will be serving chilled cans of the drink and Diet Coke.

The visit is part of the lorry's 45-stop tour around the UK, which is taking place between November 18 and December 23.

Pub relaunches as The Wolf on Sheep Street

A pub in Northampton town centre has been re-branded as a rock bar in a bid to attract new customers and give it a "fresh approach".

Business partners Michael Maher and Andy Metcalfe took over The Bear, in Sheep Street, this month and it is set to undergo a gradual transformation in the coming months.

The furniture has been stripped out and updates will include Sky television, pub food – including breakfasts – and an outdoor stage at the rear of the building.

Mr Maher said the pub, which is being renamed The Wolf on Sheep Street, was trying to establish itself as a rock bar. He said: "Places like The Racehorse have changed their audience a bit and the Penny Whistle closed down so there's room for another rock bar in Northampton."

"We're now hosting the Blastchamber on a Saturday, which has needed a home for a while, and we'll have live bands outside by next summer. I suppose you could say The Bear had a bit of a reputation and it was a bit of a locals' bar in Northampton so we've renamed it and tried to freshen things up."

The bar will be aimed at younger people and students and, as well as football on Sky Sports, it will be showing American football and WWE wrestling matches.

Potential customers have welcomed the change in comments on the Chron's Facebook page. One reader, Liz Atherton, said: "Wouldn't have gone in The Bear before if you paid me."

"But since the guys have been working so hard on it, spent the last two Saturday nights there and have had a fantastic time. "Change can be a good thing."

Another reader, Kieron Whitehouse, said: "After so many negative changes to the town, this is definitely a posi-

King Billy to extend

An established rock-themed pub in Northampton town centre has been given permission to extend the building to include a live music venue with a capacity of 450 people. The King Billy, in Bridge Street, is planning the move to increase capacity on its popular music nights, which feature both originals bands and regular covers bands on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

Landlady Rachel Morgan said: "We're proposing to extend the pub to include a music venue to hold 450 people and cater for touring bands. The planning permission has been granted."

itive. I've been there a couple of times since the change and it's a work in progress, but definitely a move in the right direction."

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Trevor Skidmore feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 10 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service the Northampton, Kettering, Wellingborough & Corby areas and Trevor is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Trevor a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

STILL WAITING Work on Northampton Castle Station is nearing completion but there is no opening date

Frustrations grow over station delay

The leader of the borough council and two members of the Northampton Rail Users' group have expressed their frustrations at the delay in the opening of the town's new railway station.

In September, London Midland announced that Northampton Castle Station would open on October 6. But, two weeks later, Network Rail revealed passengers would have to wait another month for the station to open, due to "unforeseen contractual issues".

This week, a Network Rail spokesman said the opening of the station would be announced "as soon as possible", but could not give an exact date.

Sally Keeble, who is the president of the Northampton Rail Users' Group, said the situation was a "disgrace".

She said: "The opening of the new station to passengers has been shrouded in secrecy.

"If this is being held back by a dispute between agencies then they should have sorted that out previously.

"There is no reason the public should be inconvenienced."

Brian Binley, Conservative MP for Northampton South and the rail users' group chairman, said he understood the delay was due to a problem with the power supply.

He said: "If it is a problem with a power supplier then I am more than happy to talk to the power company.

"Network Rail would be well advised to say what the reasons are for the delay. They need to realise how important this station is to the town.

"It is frustrating for passengers to see the new station looking like it is built, but they are unable to use it."

Councillor David Mackintosh, leader of Northampton Borough Council, said: "The new railway station will be a great asset for Northampton, so of course it is very frustrating that the opening has been delayed.

"We are doing all we can to help the train operator and Network Rail, and are pushing for a quick resolution," he added.

Poll has Labour win in Northampton North

Labour would take the Northampton North seat from the Conservatives if the election were held tomorrow, according to a poll led by Tory peer, Lord Ashcroft.

Between October 2–27, a total of 1,000 constituents were interviewed in the Northampton North area and asked which party they would choose at the next general election.

The results showed UKIP would take 22 per cent of the vote, 19 per cent more than the 2010 election, but ultimately Labour would take the seat with a four per cent lead.

The party's candidate for Northampton North, Sally Keeble, said: "Polls come and go and I will not take any vote for granted. I will continue to work hard to get people's vote."

Northampton North was part of 12 marginal Tory constituencies surveyed in the Lord Ashcroft poll.

For each constituency, results were weighted to be "representative of all adults living in the constituency".

Sally Keeble and Michael Ellis

The results were also weighted by past votes at general elections and 'stated likelihood' to turn out at the next.

A proportion of those who did not know or refused to say how they will vote were re-allocated to the party they voted for at the 2010 general election.

The results showed that the Liberal Democrats would lose a 19 per cent share of their vote.

Although UKIP stand to make substantial gains, the chairman of the Northampton branch of the party, Robin Fruish, believed it could gain even more when votes are cast in May.

He said: "I think 22 per cent of the vote would be light. I believe we are going to get a higher proportion of the vote."

"The reason for that is because people are dismayed with both the two major parties."

"We are offering a totally different approach locally and nationally."

Northampton North MP Michael Ellis said: "I am continuing to work hard in Northampton North and the only poll that matters is on May 7."

Athletics academy to be set up when track opens

A new athletics academy will be set up at Moulton College to coincide with the opening of a new eight-lane track, it has been announced.

Members of Daventry District Council's planning committee unanimously voted to approve a planning application for a new athletics track, as well as changing facilities and car parking.

The selected site is the Pitsford Centre at Moulton College and the development will consist of a new eight-lane track plus field athletics facility to meet UK Athletics Competition 'Class A' Certification Standard.

Jan Matthews, spokeswoman for Moulton College, said the college would be setting up an athletics academy where young people could study for a Level 3 Diploma in Sports and Fitness.

She said: "The addition of the athletics track will further enhance the superb sports facilities already on offer at the college.

Moulton College has been given approval to open a new athletics track

"We are delighted that we are able to immediately proceed with this exciting new venture which should be 'ready for running' in 2015.

"The track will not only benefit Moulton students but also the local community, including the Rugby & Northampton Athletics Club, and we all look forward to being able to see a Moulton College athletics student possibly representing the UK."

ROAD TEST - SUBARU IMPREZA 1.6i RC

More choice for your yen

How can you not warm to a car when the man charged with selling them says the company "went through a pretty sticky patch".

Refreshingly honest at that statement was, you know he'd only utter the words if the world did not look a rosier place today to sell us a Subaru.

And it does, principally because Japan is now much weaker economically compared to the UK. That means your pound goes a lot further when you have to buy something in yen from Japan, as importers of Subarus must do.

The car you see here is a prime example. For the same sort of money you need for something like a Ford Focus, you can turn to a Subaru Impreza and discover a car that's very deliberately different.

The differences go deep, with features fitted as standard that are expensive extras or simply not offered on mainstream rivals like the Focus and a host of other big-sellers.

Top of the list is permanent four-wheel drive. It's the real deal, not the half-hearted on-demand system rivals sometimes offer. It gives the ordinary-looking Impreza hatchback all-weather grip.

This is a car that feels sensible all the way through, from an interior that prefers plain logic to plush contrivance and even to a warranty that might last you 100,000 miles.

The Greatest Gift

The Gift of Yours and Many Lifetimes

Are you a Saxon, a Viking, or a Norman? Or are you descended from the hundreds of lineages from all over the world that are found in the DNA of the British?

All of us on these islands are immigrants, descendants both of pioneers who repopulated the North after the end of the last ice age and also much more recent arrivals. BritainsDNA can answer an age-old question - it can tell you where you come from.

Dealmonster is offering £50 off the Chromo Complete test for men, reducing it from £250 to £200 and the test for women is reduced from £220 to £170. Go online or call now for this time-limited offer. It ends at midnight Sunday 14th December.

Manoa likely to leave Saints

Saints boss Mallinder says forward is in talks with French clubs

RUGBY

Saints boss Jim Mallinder has confirmed Samu Manoa is negotiating with French clubs and is likely to leave Saints next summer.

But he says nothing is set in stone as yet and has stressed rumours surrounding Dylan Hartley and George Pisi remain speculation.

Manoa has been heavily linked with Toulon in recent weeks, with reports in France suggesting the America star is close to signing a two-year deal at the Top 14 champions.

And Mallinder admits Saints can't afford to compete with the cash-rich clubs from across the Channel.

"He's going to be sought after, is Samu," the director of rugby told the Chron. "I do know the speculation is right, there's massive interest from France.

"There's a number of clubs who are really, really after him. I spoke to him and it's more than likely he's going to go to France.

"We've got our salary cap, we'd love to keep him, but there comes a point where you've got to say 'well done, thank-you for what you've done here and let's make sure we have a good season'.

"He's got to make his own mind up, he's doing that. There are a number of French clubs who will be willing to pay a lot of money for him."

Saints skipper Hartley has been linked with a move to Montpellier, while Samoa centre Pisi is reported to be a target for Castres.

Mallinder accepts that his double-winning squad will attract interest, but also feels his club are a big pull for players as he continues to look at recruitment.

"It's all speculation, I wouldn't just say it's Dylan, it's George," he said.

"We've got some quality players and worldwide people want quality players, which puts a price on their head, but we're very comfortable where we are, we don't discuss how our personal negotiations are going.

"They are ongoing with our current squad and also with other players from other clubs.

"We're always looking at our recruitment and we'll continue to do that."

LIKELY EXIT Samu Manoa is in talks with French clubs about a possible move away from Franklin's Gardens

Burrell set to return

LUTHER Burrell could be fit in time to take his place in the Saints side for Friday's game against Exeter Chiefs, according to director of rugby Jim Mallinder.

The centre is recovering well from the hand injury that forced him to exit the Champions Cup win against Ospreys on October 25.

He missed England's game against New Zealand last weekend and has not returned to Pennyhill Park ahead of Saturday's clash with South Africa.

But Burrell could get some gametime for Saints when the Chiefs come calling in the Aviva Premiership clash at Franklin's Gardens.

"Luther is back in training and we'll have to see on his fitness, hopefully he'll be fine for the weekend," said Mallinder.

Midfielder O'Toole could make loan move

JOHN-JOE O'Toole could leave the Cobblers on loan after manager Chris Wilder declared himself unhappy with both the player's contribution to the team and his fitness levels.

Midfielder O'Toole was left out of the matchday squad entirely for the FA Cup first-round tie against Rochdale despite not being injured but could return to first-team action for the Johnstone's Paint Trophy game at Leyton Orient on Tuesday night.

O'Toole signed a three-year

contract at Sixfields in the summer and arrived as something of a marquee signing having scored 15 times for Bristol Rovers last season and winning a place in the PFA team of the year for league two.

But he has been largely a bit-part player at Northampton and has failed to score in his 17 appearances for the club to date.

"He's a stand-out player and he should be doing a lot more when he plays," said

Wilder. "Maybe we haven't got him in a place where physically he can't do that and we need to look at ourselves in terms of that.

"To be a footballer and to be the way we expect him to play, he has to be getting around the park a lot more.

"We've clipped DVDs together of what he did last year and what he has done this year and we feel like he's off the pace.

"He should be a big player for us and at the moment he's not a stand-out. We expect players like him, Marc Richards and Zander Diamond to be big players for us, and John-Joe is in the bracket but the others have been and he hasn't.

"We have to find a solution because just doing 'okay' isn't good enough either for us or for him."

When asked if such a solution might be to send the player out on loan, Wilder said: "It might be, if something comes in and can guarantee him games. We can't use our first team to get him fit.

"He has to work harder on the training ground and maybe we have to put more work on for him. We take responsibility for that and he needs to work harder on the pitch."

Meanwhile, Lee Collins is confident he can provide a layer of defensive competition after a procedure to 'get all the rubbish out' of a recent foot injury.

Centre-back Collins was restored to the Cobblers starting line-up for their FA Cup tie against Rochdale.

The 26-year-old had missed four games after limping off in the game against Burton Albion on October 11 with a trapped nerve in his foot, an injury from which he has now made a full recovery.

"I had an injection to get all the rubbish out of it and since then everything has been fine, I've trained fine and I feel good," he said.

"I was happy to get through the full 90 minutes on Saturday and we've got a few games coming up now so it will be good to have competition for places."
